

Cross-Functional Technician

Alexanderwerk is a German machinery manufacturer of high quality process equipment for the Pharmaceutical & Chemical Industries located in Montgomeryville, PA. We are growing and therefore seeking a Cross Functional Technician with a good understanding of electric and mechanical components as well as warehousing activities.

Description of duties and responsibilities:

This candidate will assist in set up, clean, and reassemble machinery for laboratory testing, assist with proof of concept and contract manufacturing material runs. Also provides support for the customer support inventory and shipping department.

Required Experience:

- Familiarity with warehousing, electro-mechanical componentry and its repair and maintenance is highly desired.
 - Alternatively: Experience in automotive maintenance / repair, small engine repair, building maintenance, or industrial manufacturing.
- Related work experience especially in the pharmaceutical industry and / or manufacturing is preferred.

Abilities & Skills Required:

- Ability to easily navigate multiple software and internet applications, proficient in MS Office programs, basic data entry skills
- Valid driver's license and reliable personal transportation

Additional information:

- Work in a friendly atmosphere out of a freshly renovated main office that with plenty of natural light
- This is a career with ample growth opportunities

Please submit your info to generalinfo@alexanderwerkinc.com